AGUA DE MAGNOLIA.

A toilet delight. Superior to any cologne, used to bathe the face and person, to render the skin soft and fresh, to allay inflammation, to perfume clothing, for headache, &c. It is manufactured from the rich southern Magnolia, and is obtaining a patronage quite unprecedented. It is a favorite with actresses and opera singers. It is sold by all dealers, at $1.00 in large bottles, and by Demas Barnes & Co., New York, Wholesale Agents

Saratoga Spring Water, sold by all Druggists.

S. T.---1860---X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after-eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS, which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Winter-green, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of imposters. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. ☞See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. ☞Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters, from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Have you a hurt child or a lame horse? Use the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For cuts, sprains, burns swellings and caked breasts, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is a certain cure.

For rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff joints, stings and bites, there is nothing like the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For spavined horses, the poll evil, ringbone and sweeny, the Mexican Mustang Liniment never fails.

For, wind-galls, scratches, big-head and splint, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is worth its weight in gold.

Cuts, bruises, sprains and swellings, are so common and certain to occur in every family, that a bottle of this Liniment is the best investment that can be made.

It is more certain than the doctor—it saves time in sending for the doctor—it is cheaper than the doctor, and should never be dispensed with.

"In lifting the kettle from the fire, it tipped over and scalded my hands terribly. * * * The Mustang Liniment extracted the pain, caused the sore to heal rapidly, and left very little scar.

CHAS. FOSTER, 420 Broad street, Philada.

Mr. S. Litch, of Hyde Park, Vt., writes: "My horse was considered worthless, (spavin,) but since the use of the Mustang Liniment, I have sold him for $150. Your Liniment is doing wonders up here."

All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings, signed, G. W. Westbrook, Chemist, and also has the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co., over the top.

Look clearly, and be not deceived by counterfeits.

Sold by all Druggists at 25, 50 cts, and $1,00.

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? What gives that marble purity and delicate appearance we observe upon the stage and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples, and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggist will order it for you, if not on hand, at 50 cents per bottle.

Heimstreet's inimitable Hair Coloring is not a dye. All instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, and more or less destroy the vitality and beauty of the hair. This is the original Hair Coloring, and has been growing in favor over twenty years. It restores gray hair to its original color by gradual absorption, in a most remarkable manner. It is also a beautiful hair dressing. Sold in two sizes—50 cents and $1—by all dealers.

PHOTOGRAPH
MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE.
PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 10 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: one the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.

EMBLEM OF FRIENDSHIP.

Beautiful ivy, though ages are sleeping,
And their mansions are going to decay,
Thou wilt never desert them, but still thou art creeping,
And creeping there day after day.

Like two gentle souls linked firmly together,
And bound in friendly esteem,
Though age overtake them, yet time cannot sever—
Their friendship is still evergreen.

Roses will fade, and flower after flower
Will wither when summer has passed,
But the ivy that clings to the old ruined tower,
Will cling there, and cling to the last.

THE RESCUE.

BY MRS. EMELINE S. SMITH.

The incident about to be related, is one of many similar ones, which occurred during the early settlement of America. Those who sought a home in the savage wilds, which then covered the land, wedded themselves to a life of peril and hardship. The dangers which continually threatened them, called forth all the heroic qualities of their nature, and their lives were marked by many a lofty deed of daring and devotion. Such deeds should not sink into oblivion, for they belong to the history of our country, and as such, should be recorded and remembered.

We would present a picture to the imagination of the reader. There is a broad and beautiful stream, with its deep, still waters, flowing on between banks covered by luxuriant foliage; and its bright surface dotted here and there with fairy little isles, where graceful shrubs and fragrant flowers bud and blossom undisturbed in wild and lonely loveliness. Bright-plumed birds, of many varieties, are winging their way over the quiet water, and the surrounding scene echoes with their tuneful minstrelsy. On the borders of the river, at the edge of a forest that stretches far away over hill and dale, stands the rude but picturesque dwelling of a backwoodsman; with the blue smoke curling up from its lowly roof, and its humble walls glancing out from the green foliage that surrounds them. There are some indications of taste and refinement near the woodman's home, which gave a cheerful appearance to that otherwise wild and lovely scene. A graceful vine curtains the lowly window, and many bright flowers, natives of a distant soil, shed their grateful perfume around. Near the door hangs a cage, containing a rare and beautiful bird, whose song of gladness breaks sweetly upon the stillness of that solitary place.

On a low seat at the entrance of the dwelling, is seen a young woman caressing an infant. She has lost the blooming loveliness of early youth—her cheek is pale, and her brow wears that thoughtful expression which is imprinted by the touch of care; yet she is still beautiful in form and feature, and none may look upon her without admiration. As she bends over the child in her arms, her eye fills with that unutterable tenderness and love which are only seen in the eye of a mother, and which make the face of a beautiful woman almost angelic. Now and then she turns from the child, to send an anxious glance towards the forest, as if she watched for the approach of some one from that direction. She is momentarily expecting her husband. He left his home at morn; the hour appointed for his return had passed away; the shadows of the tree are lengthening in the rays of the setting sun, and yet he comes not. The fond wife begins to tremble for his safety—a fearful foreboding of evil steals over her mind, and the dark dread of some approaching calamity haunts her imagination.

She has reason to fear; for that portion of country was, at this time, the theatre of many a tragic scene. Some times the woodman, in penetrating too far into the pathless recesses of the forest, lost his way, and wandering for days in the dreary wilderness, suffering many miseries, and perishing at last by the pangs of hunger. Some times the wily red man, who yet lurked about those lonely wilds, entrapped the white hunter, and, from a spirit of revenge, or the thirst for blood, sacrificed his victim with the most wanton and barbarous cruelty.

As the anxious wife thought of these things, her fears and forebodings became almost insupportable. Hushing the infant to sleep, she carried it into the dwelling, and deposited it in his cradle bed. She then hastened forth again, and wandered along the path that led to the forest, anxiously looking forward the while for her husband. She walked onwarn for some time, fondly hoping to see the object of her search, but her hopes were vain, and sending one more searching glance around, and seeing nothing but the gloomy shadows of the trees, she turned with a heavy heart to retrace her steps. As she was proceeding homeward, a sudden fear for her child, whom she had left alone, crossed her mind, and caused her to hasten forward. Drawing nearer to the dwelling, this fear became so intense, that it amounted almost to a conviction of some terrible calamity. Flying, rather than walking she reached the house, and sprang to the cradle—it was empty, and the child nowhere to be seen! With frantic eagerness she rushed to the back door of the dwelling, which she had left closed, and which she now found was open. She was just in time to see a party of Indians making rapidly to the woods. Her heart whispered the fearful assurance that they bore away its treasure. Here was a trying situation for a timid and helpless woman—her husband afar off—perhaps in peril—her child—her first born, and only one, torn away by the rude hand of a savage—dread night approaching, and no earthly arm to aid!

Without pausing for reflection, the mother flew along the path which the Indians had taken. Now and then she caught a glimpse of their forms as they moved rapidly through the trees, but as the twilight deepened and surrounding objects became more indistinct, that slight comfort was denied her, and she traced her gloomy pathway without knowing whether or not it would bring her nearer the object of her pursuit. Yet she paused not a moment in indecision, but hastened onward through the increasing darkness, unconscious of the uncertainty of her search, and the wildness of her expedition. She had but one thought—one hope; and that was to be near her child—to save it, if it could be saved, or perish with it, if perish it must. Strong in this determination, she pushed forward, thoughtless of fatigue, and fearless of peril. As the night advanced, the wind rose and sighed among the trees with a mournful and heart-chilling sound. The stars, that had hitherto shed a faint light through the branches, were now veiled in black clouds, that seemed to presage a storm, and ever and anon the shrill croaking of a night bird, or the prolonged howl of some beast of prey, was borne to the ear of the unhappy wanderer, waking fearful thoughts, and warning her of the dangers by which she was surrounded.

Those who have never roamed in a forest at midnight, can scarcely realize how much that is terrifying is connected with such a journey. At one time, the howl of the hungry wolf will burst so suddenly and clearly on the ear that we can scarcely persuade ourselves the monster is not close at our side—at another, the falling of a decayed branch will produce such a loud and fearful sound, that we deem it the fatal plunge which must doom us to destruction. Now the wind will come with a fitful and moaning cadence, so like the human voice, that we for an instant, believe it the wail of an agonized being—and again it will sweep by with a rushing sound like a troop of enraged monsters bent on a mission of death. Sometimes an unseen, low-drooping branch will softly touch the shoulder, congealing the warm current of life with the idea that a spectral hand has suddenly arrested our progress; and again a black and blasted tree, with one or two sere branches protruding from its side, will, for an instant still the pulsation of the heart, as we behold in it a frightful phantom, stretching forth its arms to grasp our shrinking forms.

All this, and more, must one feel and fear in a lonely midnight pilgrimage through the forest; and all this the mother endured as she pursued her almost hopeless enterprize. She had traveled far, very far, for the darkness of night, and the intricacies of the wood, had scarcely lessened the speed with which she commenced her walk, and she had been many hours on the way. Weariness was beginning to overcome her—hope was departing from her heart, and despair chilling all her energies, when she discovered afar off through the trees, a light. It was but a feeble glimmer, yet oh! how it irradiated the path of the wanderer. The instant she beheld it, hope sprang back to her heart, and strength invigorated her frame. That faint and far off ray seemed the light of returning happiness, and she watched it as eagerly as the mariner watches the star which guides him over ocean's stormy waves. She now hastened onward with redoubled energy, and though her steps sometimes faltered, and her heart sunk within her, as the light disappeared behind some intervening object, she still kept her eye steadily in the direction of the beacon, and soon gained a position where it shone brightly before her, and could approach without losing sight of it again. As she drew near, she gazed upon the scene which that light revealed, with mingled feelings of astonishment, hope and fear.

There was a large fire built of the dried branches of trees, and around it lay the dusky forms of five or six Indians, reposing upon the ground. Their appearance was savage in the extreme; each with his painted feathers lighted by the fitful glare of the fire, and his tomahawk and scalping knife gleaming at his side. Near them were implements of hunting, and around the fire lay scattered bones and fragments of a recent rude and hasty repast. The whole scene was calculated to strike terror into the heart of the delicate being who gazed upon it.

But she scarcely saw the rude savages or their implements of death, for her whole soul was absorbed in contemplating a portion of the scene which we have not yet described, and which riveted her attention with a thrilling and magic power. Bound to a tree, has the form of her husband; and at his feet on the cold ground, lay her child. The father's face was pale, and stained with blood; the infant's was covered by its dress, and its form was motionless as if chilled by the cold hand of death. How felt the fond wife and mother when that sight of horror met her eyes? Repressing by a mighty effort the shriek of agony that rose to her lips, and conquering, by the strength of a heroic soul, the almost irresistible desire she felt to rush forward, and clasp those dear ones to her aching heart, she stood gazing upon the scene with feelings which cannot be described. She saw with a throb of sudden joy, that her husband lived, but her heart grew cold again as she watched the motionless form of her child. She longed to fly to its side, and ascertain the truth, for the suspense that preyed upon her spirits were terrible, but again her resolute mind restrained her, and she began to deliberate upon the situation of her husband, and devise means for releasing him.

The vivid light cast by the fire on all things near it, enabled the wife to note the scene distinctly. She saw, with a thankful heart, that the savages all slept, and that she could reach the side of her husband without passing near enough to awake them; but she also saw that he was bound by strong cords, which she could not hope, in her wearied state, to unfasten, and she looked about for something to sever them. There was nothing, save the knives which the Indians wore at their sides. Looking more intently, she saw that one of these had slipped from its place, and lay on the ground by its owner, so near, that his hand almost touched the hilt. A pang of intense fear shot through her frame, when she thought of approaching so close to the terrific form of the savage, but another look upon the pale face of the prisoner, re-assured her, and she determined to rescue him, or perish in the attempt. She could not approach the Indians without revealing herself to the eyes of her husband, and she feared, in that case, an exclamation of surprise would follow her appearance, and rouse the foe from their slumber. After pondering a moment upon the best mode of proceeding, she determined to steal softly to the back of the tree, place her hand upon the lip of the captive, whisper a few words of exclamation, and implore him, not by the slightest murmur, to frustrate her plans. With a throbbing heart, she commenced her perilous undertaking. Noiselessly she made her way to the tree, and accomplished her purpose. There was no time for delay, yet one instant the mother turned to look up on her child, yearning to clasp it to her bosom, but not daring to lift the cloth which concealed its features, and assure herself whether or not it lived. A little while before, she would have given worlds to be able to do this, but now she felt that to behold it wrapped in the slumber of death would unnerve her arm, and render her unfit for the further prosecution of her trying task. With a firmness that would have done honor to a stoic, she conquered the promptings of natural love, and hastened away. With a step as noiseless as the falling dew, she glided towards the sumbering savages; as she drew near, her frame trembled so violently, she could scarcely support herself; and when she put forth her hand to take the knife, the beating of her heart was so audible, she feared it would awake the sleepers, and she pressed her hand convulsively upon it to still its tumultuous throbbings. One terrible instant she thought the eyes of the Indian opened, and glared upon her with a fierce and malignant expression; but this was mere fancy, for he still slept, and the next moment she was gliding away with the knife firmly grasped in her hand. With a few rapid strokes she liberated her husband, and then bent down and uncovered the child. To her unspeakable joy, she found it in a slumber as sweet and peaceful as though it had been hushed to rest upon its mother's bosom. With a prayer of gratitude upon her lips, she lifted it from its resting place, turned to her companion, and motioned the way to their home. With rapid and noiseless steps they hurried away, speeding onward with tremulous yet hopeful hearts. Not a moment did the fond mother spare to caress her infant—not a word did she utter to greet her husband. The spell of a new found, uncertain happiness had settled upon her spirit, and she feared to break its thrilling charm. For a time they travelled thus in silence and darkness; moving as near as they could judge, in the direction of their home, and anxious to be farther, still farther away from their enemies. At length weariness compelled them to rest awhile, and, as the dawning day began to shed a trembling light abroad, they crept into a thicket and sought repose.

The beams of the rising sun lighted the wanderers on their homeward pathway; and when that sun was sinking to repose, its parting rays fell calmly over the woodman's humble home, revealing a scene of bliss such as seldom visits the abode of man. How radiant with grateful joy was the face of the fond mother, as she clasped her recovered treasure closer to her bosom; how full of admiring love was the eye of the rescued husband, as it rested upon its preserver; and oh! how warm and fervent was the prayer, breathed in that hour of safety, bearing up to Heaven the deep devotion of thankful and happy hearts.

RULES FOR YOUNG LADIES.—A Boston paper, no doubt versed in the rules of society in vogue at the "Hub," suggests the following memoranda as a guide to young ladies in their conduct: "Have a good piano or none.—Be sure to have a 'dreadful cold' when asked to 'favor the company.' Cry at a wedding, but don't faint. Always scream at a spider. Never leave your curl papers in the drawing room.—Drop your handkerchief when you are going to faint. Mind you are 'engaged' if you don't like your partner. Abjure ringlets on a wet day. Never faint unless it is convenient to fall into the arms of the young gentleman you love. Remember, it is vulgar in the extreme to know what your mother is going to have for dinner. When you go a shopping, be sure to take your ma along to carry the bundles."

The Passage of the Supplementary Reconstruction Bill--A Summary of its Provisions.

The Supplementary Reconstruction bill has finally passed both Houses of Congress; and has gone to the President for his signature or rejection. He will probably veto it, when it will immediately be passed over his veto and become a law.

This bill merely supplies the necessary machinery for carrying out the general plan of reconstruction adopted by the last Congress. It provides that, before the first day of September next, the Commanding General in each of the districts under the Reconstruction law passed last session, shall cause a registration to be made of the legal voters under that act, and who shall have taken and subscribed an oath to the effect that they are citizens of full age, have never been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States—have never, as United States or State officers, taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, or held a civil office in any State, and afterwards engaged in rebellion or insurrection against the United States—and that they will support and defend the Constitution of the United States.

That, after the completion of the registration in any State, an election, of which at least thirty days' notice shall have been given, shall be held, at such time as the commanding General shall direct, for delegates to frame a Constitution and civil government for the State loyal to the Union. At that election the qualified voters shall also vote on the question whether a Convention shall be held or not, and no Convention shall be held unless a majority of the registered voters shall have voted upon that question, and a majority of those so voting shall have voted in favor of holding a Convention.

That the Commanding General shall appoint not exceeding three loyal officers or persons in each election district to make registration of the voters, superintend the election, and make return to him of the votes and of the persons elected. He shall then make proclamation of the result, and, within sixty days after the election, shall notify the delegates to assemble at a place named, and, on a day fixed, to frame a constitution. The Convention, when organized, shall first determine by a vote whether it is the wish of the people of the State to frame a constitution and civil government in conformity with the provisions of the act, and if it is, shall then proceed to frame the constitution, which, when framed shall be submitted for ratification to the registered voters of the State, at an election to be held by the officers appointed by the commanding general for the election of members of the Convention, the returns, as before, to be made to him.

That if the Constitution shall have been ratified by a majority of the votes of the qualified electors, the President of the Convention shall transmit a certified copy of the same to the President of the United States, who shall forthwith transmit it to Congress, if in session, or if not, immediately upon its reassembling; and if Congress shall declare the same to be in conformity with the provisions of the Reconstruction act, and shall be satisfied that all the registered voters had an opportunity to vote without hindrance or intimidation, and that it meets their approval, the State shall be declared entitled to representation, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom. All elections under the act are to be by ballot.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

"THEM'S 'EM."—We often hear of remarkable cases of "absence of mind." Here is one equal to anything we have seen lately. The man was doubtless a very interesting head of the family:

"I say, cap'n," said a little keen-eyed man, as he landed from the steamboat Potomac at Natchez. "I say, cap'n, this here ain't all."

"That's all the baggage you brought on board, sir," replied the captain.

"Well, see now, I grant it all O K according to list—four boxes, three chests, two band boxes, a portmanty, two hams—one part cut—three ropes of inyons and a tea kettle; but you see, cap'n, I am dubersome. I feel there's something short. Though I've counted 'em nine times, and never took my eyes off 'em while on board, there's somethin' not right somehow."

"Well, stranger, the time is up; there is all I know of; so bring your wife and five children out of the cabin, and we are off."

"Them's 'em, darn it; them's 'em! I know'd I'd forgot something."

☞In a certain Sabbath School the superintendent made a powerful appeal to the scholars to be active and useful, and among other things he told them that they all should be locomotives, each taking along his train to heaven. The next Sabbath, just as the school opened, in came one of the best and most zealous boys with thirteen new scholars behind him, and went up the aisle uttering a noise,—choo, choo—imitative of the engine, to the amazement of the superintendent and scholars.

"What does this mean?" asked the astonished superintendent.

"Why," said the boy, "you said we must all be locomotives, and here I am with thirteen cars behind me."

☞A teacher said to a little girl at school: "If a naughty girl should hurt you, like a good girl you would forgive her, wouldn't you."

"Yes marm," she replied, "if I couldn't catch her."

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

To the Patrons of the "Globe."

Our patrons will notice by reference to heads of first and second pages hereafter, that Mr. HUGH LINDSAY will be associated with us in the publishing as well as the editorial department of the "Globe." Having served under us as an apprentice, foreman, and associate editor, Mr. LINDSAY is no stranger in the office, and any business entrusted to his care will be properly attended to.

We have published the Globe twenty-one years, and we feel that it is our duty at our age to impose upon a worthy young man a part of the care and responsibilities necessary to conduct successfully a public, independent, loyal journal. The political character of the Globe will at all times speak for itself. If we fail to please politicians and mere party men, it will be because we may not be able to think as they do, or will not agree to hide the rascalities or short comings of politicians and party organizations. He is only a freeman who will speak his honest convictions and oppose corruption and other wrongs inflicted upon parties and the people.

We hope to deserve and receive the support of an honest and independent people. All parties have suffered most from a hasty willingness on the part of the party press to endorse the action of leaders. Had the Democratic press made public their honest sentiment when the South rebelled, party leaders would have changed their course, and the old organization would to-day be respected. If the Republican press continue to endorse or wink at the propositions of the extreme Radicals, the day will soon come when the party will also be in the minority in most of the States in the Union.

Legislators Picking the Pockets of the Taxpayers.

The members of the House of Representatives of this State, on Friday last, voted themselves a salary of thirteen hundred and fifty dollars for the present session of an hundred days. When the members were before the people for nomination and election, they agreed to accept the honor at the salary of one thousand dollars, the amount agreed upon by a previous legislature. Because the members have the power to raise their own wages, it does not follow that the act is any more honest than picking the pockets of the tax-payers without their consent. We hope the Governor will veto the bill if it should pass the Senate. A contract with the people should stand.

☞ President Johnson is said to be a candidate for the United States Senate, after his term as Chief Executive expires. If he ever should get back to that position we have no doubt his pertinacity would enable him to be heard. Accepting that position, however, should not give cause to the belief that he was trying to live his eventful life over again, and that he would turn up, after many revolutions, as a magistrate or constable in some insignificant town in Tennessee. We rather believe his oft repeated expression, that the height of his ambition has been reached, and we have doubts of the rumor that he wants the Senatorship.

☞ The following dispatch dated N. Y., March 27, was sent to the Senate by Thomas C. Durant, Vice President of the Union Pacific Railroad:

Work has been suspended on the Union Pacific Railroad west of Omaha. The extreme cold weather and snow prevents the laying of the track, but we were never doing more in accumulating material and getting it to the end of the track. We have now on hand the iron and ties for one hundred and fifty miles, and I will pledge myself to complete two miles a day for the first one hundred working days after the frost is out of the ground. Any investigation can only result to our credit, for we have built more road in a given time than was ever done before, and propose accomplishing more this year. We are not asking any legislation.

☞ In addition to the throngs of prominent office-seekers now in Washington, there are hundreds of the less pretentious class, including unmarried women, widows, and ex-soldiers, from all parts of the country. These importune for place in the Treasury and other Departments, and also in the public printing office. As there are no vacancies, and as the force at the latter establishment is being reduced for the lack of work, many of these strangers being without friends, are reduced to the necessity of soliciting private charity that they may return to their homes.

ADJOURNED.—Both Houses of Congress adjourned on Saturday last until the first Wednesday of July next.—Before adjournment Senator Sumner gave notice that on that day he would call up the bill for universal suffrage throughout the United States. The President has called an extra session of the Senate.

The New License Law.

The new License Law which we published last week has very little in it, which will commend itself to the temperance men of the State, or at least to those who desire to see the evils of intemperance abolished to a greater extent. The first section is the same in substance as the original law; so it leaves it optional with the temperance men to take advantage of it or not, just as before. The trouble still exists to ascertain which houses are necessary for the accommodation of the public and entertainment of strangers and travelers, and which are not. The new tavern-keeper alleges, with reason, that he has as much right to sell liquor as his predecessor, providing he has the requisite number of beds, etc; and if temperance men should remonstrate against him, he would offer this plea; and, as has been the case in our own Court, he would have his license granted.

Temperance men dread to encounter the odium of the tavern keeper, when they remonstrate against him in particular, and do not against the others. For this reason the advocates of temperance have refused to remonstrate in this and other localities, and the number of tavern keepers has increased rather than diminished. We think this difficulty could be obviated by limiting the number of licensed hotels in any place to the proportion of inhabitants or itinerant travel. One thing is certain—so long as hotels exist in a place, just so long will they apply for a license to sell liquor, no matter how many there may be, or no matter how many may be added. This will be the case so long as the number is unlimited as it is at present, or until a prohibitory law is passed.

The second section of the law, which applies to eating houses, is a little better than it was before. The change consists in having the keepers of the same to make application for license in like manner as keepers of hotels, with the exception that it is not required that they should have the beds and bed-rooms; also that County Treasurers do not grant their license. The same regulation in regard to limitation of the number, which we made above, would apply to them. It is equally certain that if one man gets a license, another will want one also. But if the number in the town is restricted by legislative enactment, then applicants can have no reason to expect a granting of their license; and thus the community would be saved from an accumulation of these houses.

Some may allege that there will be very little good accomplished by this system which we propose. It is true that it would do little in lessening the chances for men to get liquor, who will have it if they can, but it would prevent others from following the business who otherwise would; and would, as we have said, prevent an accumulation of the same in the locality. It is the number of bar rooms in a place which bring it into disrepute, and by the number is judged its ability to sustain them. Each additional bar-room is an additional temptation, and so long as the law admits of an increase, just so long will the snares be augmented, and also the evils of intemperance.

Latest News.

The Lindel hotel, in St. Louis, the largest building of its kind on this continent, if not in the world, was totally destroyed by fire on the night of the 30th. The fire broke out in one of the west front rooms in the fifth story. There were about four hundred guests in the hotel, who lost most of their personal effects. The total loss by the disaster will scarcely be less than $1,600,000. It is not known how the fire originated.

The President sent to the Senate in Executive Session, on Saturday, a treaty with Russia, by which that power surrenders to the United States sovereignty over all Russian America and the adjacent islands. It especially includes the strip of four hundred miles long which extends down the coast, thus nearly excluding British America from the ocean. The price to be paid for this territory is about $7,000,000. As it is necessary that the treaty will have to be ratified by the Senate, the President called an extra session of that body on Monday the first of April.

☞ An Italian in Mobile was put in his coffin while in a trance, as he was supposed to be dead. Upon arriving at the graveyard the friends of the deceased found that the coffin had been partially broken open, apparently by force exercised within. They at once held a consultation, which resulted in the opening of the coffin, when the apparently dead man was found to present the most unmistakable signs of life. Although there was evidently life, there was no consciousness. The whole strength of the almost buried man had been thoroughly exhausted by his efforts to make his condition known to his friends, and his consciousness deserted him simultaneously with the bursting of the lid by his frantic exertions to save himself, for he was certainly dead when the physician who was sent for arrived on the ground.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette gives an account of a fatal accident which occurred in Dayton a few days ago, the result of tight lacing. The other day she threw herself too heavily on the strings, and broke a blood vessel, from which she died in a few hours. Ladies, beware.

Accident on the Erie Railroad.

The express train of the Erie railway which started from Buffalo at twenty minutes past two o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was due here at seven o'clock this morning, met with a serious accident at two o'clock this morning near Mast Hope, on the Deleware division of the road, about a hundred miles from New York.

Trackmen, were, previous to the time of the accident, endeavoring to replace a broken rail; and when the train was expected a flagman was sent out to stop it.

The engineer, named George Elwood, and the fireman were both on the lookout, but the night was dark, and they did not see the signal.

The result was, that the engine, which, according to the statement of one of the persons employed on the train, was running at the rate of from thirty-five to forty miles an hour, went at full speed upon the bare ties, breaking the trucks and causing terrible injury to the train.

There were nine cars in all. Three express freight cars followed the tender; then a baggage car, a postal car, a smoking car, and three passenger cars, of which two were sleeping cars.

Six of these cars—the express, baggage, postal and smoking cars—were all more or less broken up, but none of the persons on them were killed. Some were considerably bruised.

The engineer, Mr. Elwood, lost his life and the fireman was scalded, but will recover.

The fact that the passengers escaped with so little injury is considered very remarkable.

A new train was made up at Deposit, and the passengers, &c, brought to this city at noon.

The Cattle Epidemic in New Jersey.

The farmers and owners of cattle in New Jersey have recently been seriously alarmed at the simultaneous appearance in various parts of the State of a new disease among their horses and mules. The disease has, in a few cases which have up to the present time occurred, invariably proved fatal, and although the symptoms are not in all instances identical, they are sufficiently alike in their general character to warrant the belief that they are the beginning of an epidemic, which may possibly create as much loss among the cattle of this section of the country as the well known rinderpest has already caused in Europe. It is admitted by all the past year, and more especially the extraordinary winter which is now closing, has been extremely unfavorable to the health of either man or beast, and there is a reasonable basis for the fear that the unusual physical conditions under which we have been placed, may have produced effects which, although they have hitherto remained dormant, may shortly become only too clearly apparent. For some time complaints have been made in nearly every county in the State of New Jersey, to the effect that an unusual amount of sickness was prevailing among horses; and, in fact, live stock generally. One of the most dangerous and fatal diseases which attack horses—lung fever—has lately been extremely destructive, while every other malady with which they are at any time visited has existed with more or less intensity. A number of deaths have, however, occurred in which the precise nature of the disease is unknown; though many of the symptoms are similar to those which in human beings characterize typhoid fever.

AGRICULTURAL.—The Monthly Report of the Agricultural Department for February contains tables showing the average yield per acre of cereals in the respective States last year.—In wheat the highest average was in Nebraska, at 26 bushels. In Pennsylvania the average was only 11 bushels. Of all the Middle and Eastern States Vermont was highest, going up to 20 bushels. Kansas was highest in Rye, yielding 26 bushels. Pennsylvanian stood at 13 bushels. Vermont led the Eastern and Middle States, standing at 18 bushels. In Barley Nebraska was ahead, yielding 35 bushels. Pennsylvania stood at 20. Vermont went to twenty nine; ahead of all the Eastern and Middle States. In oasts, Nebraska was foremost, standing at 47. Vermont stood next, at 39. Pennsylvania, 33. In corn, New Jersey was highest, at 43. Pennsylvania stood at 34. Illinois at 31. Those 100 bushels to the acre, that used to be bragged about did not appear. In Buckwheat, Vermont was highest, at 30.—Pennsylvania was at 21. In Potatoes, Florida led, showing an average of 187 bushels. Maine averaged 155, Vermont 148, Pennsylvania 99, while Colorado went to 175, and Utah to 163.

Incereals, the average yield in this country is one hundred per cent., less than in England, and fifty per cent, less than in France.

EDITORS.—Benjamin Franklin has the credit of saying that "the best editor is scissors;" by which he probably meant that the editor who recognizes the fact of there being in the world many good writers beside himself, and avails himself of the good things they have written, will make the most interesting and acceptable newspaper. Men who know most about making newspapers do not estimate an editor's labors by the number of columns he writes, but by the general completeness and finish of his paper as a whole. The following paragraph, written by an Englishman of large experience, contains the gist of the whole matter:

A good editor, or competent newspaper conductor, is like a general or a poet—born, not made. Exercise and experience give facility, but the qualification is innate, or it is never manifested. On the London daily papers all the great historians, novelists, poets, essayists and writers of travels have been tried, and nearly every one has failed. A good editor seldom writes much for his paper; he reads, judges, selects, dictates, alters and combines; and, after doing all well, he has but little time for composition. To write for a paper is one thing—to edit a paper is another.

When Does the Day Begin?

The Scientific American says:—As we travel eastward the day begins earlier; near the equator starlight appears an hour earlier for each thousand miles going east. When it is sunrise in New York, the people of Europe have had sunlight for many hours, and the Californians are still in their beds dreaming. Evidently the day has a first beginning, and at the hastward. But how far and where? What are the people who first see the light of Monday morning? It is the sun which brings the day; where does he first bring Monday? If we could travel with him we might find out. Let us suppose the case. We will take an early start; at sunrise on Sunday morning, with the sun just at the point of peeping over the horizon behind us, we travel westward. As we go, the people give us a Sunday greeting; we bring Sunday with us to Pittsburg, St. Louis, Salt Lake, San Francisco. At San Francisco our faithful chronometer informs us that we have been on the tramp about five hours. But we started on Sunday morning and it is Sunday morning still. We go on, still on Sunday morning. Will this Sunday morning ever end? The quiet Pacific knows very little of Sunday or any other day, and our question scarcely receives an echo for reply. When we get to Yokohama in Japan, or Shanghai in China, we search for some Yankee, wide awake in the early morning, and we are told for the first time that Monday has come. Everywhere now we bring Monday, and in twenty-four by the chronometer after starting, we are in New York again, and find the merchants taking down their shutters, and the Monday Newspapers telling us what has happened during our absence.

A Feminine Phenomenon.

The New York Evening Gazette says: A trustworthy gentleman gives us an account of an extraordinary illness of a young woman, a Miss Winsor, in Providence, Rhode Island.—Miss W. had been confined to her bed for several months, and had not partaken of sufficient nourishment to keep her alive if she had not been in a normal condition. Yet her faculties have become strangely acute, and she seems to be endowed with a species of second sight. When the physician, Dr. Ira Barrow, calls on her, she can tell the number of visits he has made, the number of the houses of his patients, and describe accurately their complaints.

The clock having been removed from her chamber, she was enabled to determine at any hour the exact time of day or nights, and she would describe the color, size and marks of the doctor's horse, and the hue and the texture of the lining of his carriage. She composed a poem which she called the "Sea Serpent," one half of each line in Latin and the rest in English, which was pronounced by the professors of Brown University pure Latin, although she had never the least instruction in the language. She also draws finely without having taken lessons, and does other extraordinary things not to be accounted for by any of the known laws of temperament, medicine or science. While asleep, her right arm is constantly in motion, though it is perfectly powerless when she is awake. A number of the physicians and savans of Providence are deeply interested in the case of Miss Winsor, and are endeavoring to solve the mystery of her seeming supernatural powers.

☞ The following admirable anecdote is from Breslau, and is of recent date. Not long since an elderly man with bare head stood in an eating-house, surrounded by a crowd of people. The landlord held the man's hat and cane in his hands, and an impudent waiter stood between the guest and the door. The confusion of the old man was indescribable. He seemed to be for the first time in his life in such a scrape—said nothing, looked down on the ground, and with difficulty restrained his tears, while all around mocked and jeered him. Just then a poorly-dressed Jew, with a long white beard, entered, and inquired what it all meant, and with an expression of almost feminine curiosity. He was told that the man had eaten and drunk, and now that he must pay he searched his pockets in vain for money. "Well," exclaimed the Jew, "I see the old man for the first time, but I'll be bound he did not come here to cheat. And landlord, suppose he had no money to forget, couldn't you for once give a poor man something to eat, for God's sake? How much does he owe, anyhow?" The debt was eight silver groschen, and the Jew, paying this, took the poor old man by the hand and led him to the door. Those present did not seem to enjoy the reproof which their brutality had received, and one insolent fellow cried out: "Hey! Jew, what have you done?—this is the Sabbath, and you have touched money!" [This is forbidden to the Israelites.] "You are right," answered the Jew. "Just now I forgot that I was a Jew, just as you forgot that you were Christians. But you may rest easy on my account; I understand my commandment which says, "Honor the Sabbath day and keep it holy." Just get some schoolmaster to explain it to you, and if he is a reasonable man he will agree with me. "Good deeds have no Sabbath." And with these words the good man left the room.

☞ An instance of almost superhuman endurance and perseverance occurred in San Mateo county, California, a short time since. A woodchopper was caught by a red-wood tree, three feet in diameter, which fell across both legs. A fierce storm was progressing, and through the live-long night the sufferer madly shrieked for assistance, only to be answered by the mocking winds that howled through the surrounding forest. The next morning the sufferer perceived his axe within reach, and hope sprang up in his heart. Lying prostrate on his back, he commenced the weary task of chopping the tree in twain. At each blow of the axe the huge tree settled upon his limbs, crushing them almost to a jelly, but still he persevered, and after two days of unremitted toil his task was accomplished. Mangled and crushed as he was, he crawled to a distant cabin. Medical aid was called and both legs were amputated. Incredible as it seems, the man is likely to recover.

Report of First National Bank, "
Notice, New Store, Johnston & Wattson, "

☞ See opposite page. ☜

Brief Items.

— The Monitor office has been removed to Hill street, a few doors east of the First National Bank.

— The Lewistown Gazette is apprised that a law has passed the Legislature taxing dogs, for the use of public schools.

— A bull aged 3½ years, was killed in Mifflin county the other day which weighed 1790 lbs. That's a bully weight, we consider.

— The new license law, which we published last week, goes into effect when temperance people choose to enforce it.

—Horse-bills printed in the best style at the Globe office. For particulars see bills, or call at our office and examine specimens.

— Now is the time to select your Wall Paper. Call at Lewis' Book Store, where you can select from a large assortment of the newest styles.

— We neglected last week to notice the fine improvement in the first National Bank. Gentlemen of taste had something to do with it.

— Works beautifully —the Patent Atmospheric Butter Maker, now on exhibition by Capt. J. Thomas, at the Franklin Hotel.

—Some scamps entered the smoke-house of Dr. Neff on Friday night last and helped themselves to a full supply of provisions. They need scotching.

— A gentleman who has taken the trouble to count, says there are forty-two stores in the borough of Huntingdon. This speaks well for a population of three thousand.

— Mr. John Westbrook has removed his store opposite the National Bank to the room in the Diamond, where he will be happy to receive calls from old and new customers.

— The Fakir of Vishnu, not yet forgotten by our people, advertises for a partner. He intends to enlarge his entertainment. Quite necessary, we think, for variety's sake.

— A man named Cornelius Feeley used a knife rather feelingly on three persons in a beer house in Lewistown, and as a consequence was put in jail, and it is hoped he will feel what the law is.

— Dr. Brumbaugh has removed from his former residence on Montgomery street to the brick on Washington street, a few doors east of the Catholic Church. His office is still on Hill street.

— The Presbyterian Church of this place is to be enlarged for the accommodation of the congregation, by the erection of side galleries. Proposals will be received by G. W. Garretson. See advertisement.

— Those persons who have moved or intend moving should not forget to call at Lewis' Book Store, and purchase their Wall Paper, Window Shades, &c. A house with rooms neatly papered "is a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

— As Court commences next week, those of our country patrons who are in arrears for subscription, etc., will have a good opportunity for squaring up accounts with us. Our books are open for the reception of new subscribers.

— The fittings in this place were as numerous as in former years. — Those of our town subscribers who have changed their residence will notify the carrier or call at our office. Those who desire to take the paper will do likewise.

— Twelve quarts of chimney soot in a hogshead of water is said to be a valuable liquid manure to improve the growth of flowers, garden vegetables or root crops. We thought that some good use would eventually be made out of this formerly castaway nothingness.

—Mr. Theophilus Cisney died at his residence in Hill Valley, Shirley township, on the 20th ult., at the ripe old age of 104 years. Mr. Cisney was born near Shippensburg, Pa., in 1763. He removed to Huntingdon county in 1793, where he has been ever since.—He was able to manage the affairs of his farm until he reached the age of 94.

—The family of John Young, containing seven members, residing near Altoona, were all poisoned recently by eating a lot of buscuit, in which thro' mistake the oldest daughter had used tartar emetic. The physician thinks there was also some arsenic in the cakes. The family is recovering.

—Township Auditors are required by law to audit the bounty accounts of every district, prepare a condensed statement of these finances, and publish the same, at the cost of the district, for three successive weeks, in two papers. A penalty of fifty dollars is imposed on each Auditor who fails to comply.

— Gen. Wm. D., the former sassafras merchant, has now engaged extensively in the bone business. By his industry he has collected about three tons of bones, and received the pay for them. Upon seeing him regularly going his daily rounds behind his wheelbarrow, we have thought of the proverb: "Seest thou a man diligent in his business; he shall stand before kings, and not before mean men;" and we have wondered whether Fortune was not smiling upon poor, neglected Billy.

The Borough Election.

The election on Monday for Burgess, Council and Constable was well attended to—the voters turning out more generally than usual at such elections. Some three hundred and nine votes were polled. The contest was a mixed one—with some it was go your party blind—with others bull or no bull—with others town-hall or no town hall, etc., etc. Two tickets were run—for constable Levi Westbrook and Wm. H. King were upon both—Mr. King was re-elected. The tickets were as follows, with the vote for each:

Burgess.		Burgess.
T. H. Cremer,	132	Graffus Miller,	180
Council.		Council.
W. Cunningham,	149	Frank Heffright,	179
Daniel Artley,	176	D. P. Gwin,	136
N. B. Corbin,	144	A. A. Cohill,	144
Constable.		Constable.
William King,	216	Levi Westbrook,	91

Lamentable Occurrence.

On Saturday afternoon last, while a little girl named Jennie Murphy, aged about nine years, was engaged in throwing down hay from the mow of her mother's stable, somewhere in the neighborhood of Lilly's Station, this county, the roof of the structure suddenly gave way in consequence of the heavy weight of snow upon it, and falling in, buried the unfortunate child in the ruins. The noise of the accident attracted the little girl's mother to the spot, who had the unspeakable anguish to find her daughter, though still living, suffering most intense torture. Unable herself to rescue her child, the distracted mother hastened with all speed to a neighbor's house, but only to find the occupants absent. Hurrying onward in her search for assistance she secured the aid of other neighbors, some two miles distant from the scene of the accident, but when they arrived upon the spot it was too late—the poor child's life was extinct. —Cambria Freeman.

Good News.

The prices of goods, but especially dry goods and groceries have rapidly declined during the last two weeks.—Should the decline be permanent, and we hope it will be, many folks can afford to make purchases which they have been postponing for months. If they wish to know where and from whom they can purchase to the best advantage, let them go to Johnston & Wattson's, who have received a large stock of all kinds of goods, and are selling them at very low prices. Go and see them.

A Hint to Lads and Lasses.

A want has long been felt in this community of some store for young ladies and gentlemen to get just what they wanted in the trimming and furnishing line. We are pleased to state that this want is now supplied by our young and genial friend W. P. Rudolph, who has opened a Ladies' Trimming and Gent's Furnishing Store, on the North east corner of the Diamond.—He also has a complete assortment of Hats and Caps. Go to his store and see the latest styles. Advertisement next week.

Wanted,

Men from town and country, to call at the Franklin Hotel, Huntingdon, and see the Patent Atmospheric Butter-Maker. Churns every day from sweet milk in five minutes. Any one, by investing a few dollars, can make from $25 to $50 a day. It costs only 30 cents and sells for $3.

County rights for sale by J. THOMAS, Agent, Huntingdon, Pa. 3t

— The first of April has come, and brought with it its usual migrations, and many are thrown out of homes, who still have a desire to stay with us. Those who built temporary dwelling houses last year are not troubled, and we suggest that those who are now homeless do the same. There should be at least fifty new houses every spring, to meet the demands of our increasing population. Would'nt a building association "pay?"

Carpet Weaving.

Valentine Gemrote respectfully informs the people of Huntingdon and vicinity, that he is prepared to weave Carpets in the best workmanlike manner. His stand is on Moore street, nearly opposite Miller's Brewery.—He invites the patronage of his former customers and others. 3t*

Another Big Opening.

O. D. Lewis will open out on Monday next, his store in Leister's new building. Our friend John McLaughlin, the accommodating clerk, will always be at his post, ready to furnish goods of the best style, and at reasonable prices. The stock consists of Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., etc.

Removed.

The Post-Office was removed yesterday from the Broad Top corner to the room nearly opposite Lewis' Book and Stationery Store. Ash. Miller is still Postmaster, notwithstanding the removal. The post office is now in a good location for the community at large; we do not say this through any jesting spirit.

Religious.

There will be services in the Episcopal Church of this place on Friday evening, also on Sabbath morning and evening next.

There will be preaching in the German Reformed Church on Sunday morning next.

Gone to McConnellstown.

Dr. William Brewster has removed to McConnellstown. His town patients will still receive calls.

☞ Justices' and Constables' Fee Bills for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

Localizing.

Almost everybody has an idea of his own how a local newspaper should be conducted, but however they may differ on other items, they almos invariably coincide in one opinion—that a newspaper should be mostly made up of local items. They do not seem to think that a local editor is not omnipresent: nor that the proprietor can afford to keep a "local" on every street corner; nor that either of them cannot be poking his nose into other people's business all the time, asking questions for which he feels he should be rebuked. To effect the grand result desired by everybody in a local paper, each member of the community should be under obligation to contribute his mite of news, with the understanding that every other member do the same. Thus an editor would be merely a scribe, and the printer the multiplier of the records made.

☞ A gentleman reports to us, that a few days ago he discovered a very valuable deposit of galena or lead ore, in Middle Woodberry township, Bedford county, some four miles from the town of Woodberry. A party visited a cave in that neighborhood, and in one of the chambers some mineral substance seemed to fill the crevices of the rock, and upon examining it, it was found to be a lead vein. Subsequent searches disclose the fact, that the surrounding rock contains some excellent veins of this mineral. The owner of the land whose name we believe is Wagner, refuses to allow parties to attempt its development. He has been offered a good price for his land or for leases, but refuses either to sell or lease.—Hollidaysburgh Leader.

MARRIED,

In Altoona, on the 28th ult., by Rev. J. S. McMurray, Mr. E. W. THOMAS, of Huntingdon, to Miss EVA W. WRIGHT, of Petersburg, Hunt. co.

The above happy couple will please receive the thanks of the printers for their handsome present, and also their best wishes. The musical Professor is lucky in getting a fair help-meet, and we hope he will find the pleasures of married life exceed his most sanguine expectations, and may the music of a happy and prosperous family ring melodiously in his ears. Having married (W)right, we trust his course will be ever right, upward and onward.

DR. LEON'S

ELECTRIC HAIR RENEWER,

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, failed or gray hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal.—The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.

Sold by Druggists throughout the United States. Address all orders to TURN FROM THE WINE-CUP.

BY GEORGE W. BUNGAY.

O touch not the cup that is brimming with wine,
Profane not the lips where the Hisses divine,
Fresh the mouth of a mother, have blessed
The dear child which her white bosom pressed.
Though like the "melted ruby" it glows,
It is a liquid fire,—and dire that flows,
Through the veins in a lava-like flame,
Consuming health, and fortune, and fame,
The cup of Circe, filled with wine,
Turned the friends of Ulysses to swine.
So turn from the wine cup away,
And take not the risk of their day;
And heed not its roseate glow;
In its red liquid lair the foe,
That bites like an adder, lies:
Its beads are the serpent's eyes;
"Dash it down, dash it down."
The throne, sceptre and crown
Of the manhood may be
Lost in the red sea,
Where no prophet's rod
Points the path to God.
It leaves a stain
On heart and brain;
It blots the light
Of hope and right
From afar;
With no star
In its crown
Settles
Down!
Drink the dew and rain,
From the wine cup refrain,
Where the sparkling fountain drips,
Moisten thy parch'd and fever'd lips,
From its bright waters flow the silver rills,
Where the sweet birds dip their songful bills,
On its margin are flowers of starry gold,
In whose petals cold water pledges behold,
Writ with pencils of light, fold upon fold.

Temperance Eloquence.

Paul Denton, a Methodist preacher in Texas, advertised a barbecue, with better liquor than usually furnished. When the people were assembled a desperado in the crowd cried out: "Mr. Paul Denton, your reverence has lied. You promised us not only a good barbecue, but better liquor. Where is the liquor?"

"There!" answered the missionary, in tones of thunder, and pointing his motionless finger at the matchless double spring gushing up in two strong columns, with a sound like a shout of joy from the bosom of the earth.—"There!" he repeated with a look terrible as lightning, (while his enemy actually trembled on his feet.) "There is the liquor which God the Eternal brews for his children!

"Not in the simmering still, over smoky fires, cooked with the poisonous gasses, and surrounded with the stench of sickening odors and rank corruption, doth your father in heaven prepare the precious essence of life, the pure cold water; but in the green glade and the grassy dell, where the red deer wanders and the child loves to play—there God brews it; and down, low down in the deepest valleys, where the rills sing, and high upon the tall mountain tops, where the storm-clouds brood and the thunder-clouds crash; and away, far out on the wide, wide sea, where the hurricane howls music, and the big waves roar the chorus, speaking the march of God—there he brews it, that beverage of life, health-giving water!

"And everywhere it is a thing of beauty; gleaming in the dewdrops; singing in the summer rain; shining in the icegem, till the trees all seem turned to living jewels; spreading a golden veil over the setting sun, or a white gauze around the midnight moon; sporting in the cataract; sleeping in the glacier; dancing in the hail shower; folding its bright snow curtain softly about the wintry world; and weaving the many-colored iris, that seraph's zone of the sky, whose warp is the rain-drops of earth, whose woof is the sunbeams of heaven, all checkered over with celestial flowers by the mystic hand of Refraction. Still always it is beautiful, that blessed life-water!—No poison bubbles on its brink; no madness or murder, no blood stains its liquid glass; pale widows and starving orphans find no tears in its depths; no drunkard's shrieking ghost from the grave cursing in words of eternal despair. Speak out, my friends! would you exchange it for the demon's drink, alcohol?"

A shout like the roar of a tempest, answered "No!"

PROGRESS OF THE MOVEMENT.—From all parts of our country come tidings of the great uprisings of the people in favor of the cause of temperance. The meetings of the various State Conventions and the Congressional Temperance Society have given a new impetus to the general cause, and organizations are everywhere being formed. The gathering hosts are everywhere marshaling for battle and for victory. In Maine they have added a State constabulary to their law; Vermont is organizing open protective societies, which have been eminently successful; New-Hampshire is striving to perfect her prohibitory law; Massachusetts is manfully fighting the battle of prohibition against license, with every prospect of success; Connecticut is enforcing her laws and closing up the rum-shops; New-York is endeavoring to plant a temperance organization in every town in the State, and striving to extend the prohibitory provisions in the Excise Law all over the State; Pennsylvania has struck for entire prohibition, and will fight it out on that line; Illinois, though just defeated in her first attempt for a Permissive bill by just one vote, is in for victory at the next trial; Michigan has put new strength into her prohibitory law; Indiana advances her standard, and the other States are equally vigilant and determined. It is emphatically a year of organization. The war has already begun, and so has the victory. The whole land will soon be the scene of severe conflicts and glorious triumphs. The demand for facts and documents, for tracts and papers, is fast increasing, and the people will circulate the truth, believing prohibition is not in vain.—National Temperance Advocate.

ONE TEASPOONFUL.—"A teaspoonful of rum toddy brought me to this," said a young man a few days before his execution; and on being asked to explain himself, continued, "When a child, my father was in the custom of taking me on his knee at dinner-time, and giving me one teaspoonful out of his glass; by this means I acquired the taste for drink, under the influence of which I committed the crime for which I am now about to suffer."

SADDENING PICTURE.—Boys in the streets from eight to sixteen years old smoking pipes and segars, destroying health, happiness, harmony and usefulness for life, and making loafers of themselves prematurely. In this age of schools, churches and Sunday-schools, it seems strange that children cannot be taught the destructive effects of tobacco on the health and happiness of the young.

COURT AFFAIRS.

APRIL TERM, 1867.

PROCLAMATION.—WHEREAS, by a precept to me directed, dated at Huntingdon, the 20th of January, A. D. 1867, under the hands and seal of the Hon. George Taylor, President of the Court of Common Pleas, Oyer and Terminer, and general jail delivery of the 24th Judicial District of Pennsylvania, composed of Huntingdon, Blair and Cambria counties; and the Hons. Glorious News!

$100 ADDITIONAL BOUNTY!!

NEW BOUNTY LAW PASSED!

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

The act of Congress, approved June 6, 1866, gives additional pensions to the following class of persons:

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged, are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 3d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

Soldiers of 1812!

All soldiers, or soldiers' widows, of the war of 1812, who have served two months, or been wounded or disabled in such service, if in necessitous circumstances, are entitled to an annuity of $10.

Local Bounty.

All veteran soldiers who gave their credit to districts in the State of Pennsylvania, and who received no local bounty, are entitled to receive three hundred dollars.

All persons having any of the above mentioned claims, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, will please address me, giving full particulars, enclosing a stamp for return postage, and they will receive a prompt reply.

BROUGHER'S PATENT EXCELSIOR

BROOM HEAD OR WRAPPER.

PATENTED DECEMBER 26, 1866.

Everybody his own Broom Maker.

This head or Wrapper is constructed of Tin or Zinc, with sliding band and bolts, in connection with the centre bolt passing thro' the handle, holding it secure.

The article to which we call your attention is very simple, light and strong, weighing but few Ounces.

The farming community have long needed an article of this character; and the high price of Brooms, together with the simplicity, durability, and practical utility of this invention makes it more saleable than any other art icle ever introduced.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

may 31, 1865. FRANCIS & WALLACE.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with couble and twisted thread and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red tape stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs" upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus reeding the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.

PROF. J. H. MCENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that it cures, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficacy. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, appliable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only knew what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.
